It was designed for the new entrants in the senior college in order to make them comfortable to the new academic world. It was to motivate, sensitize, explore to the academic interests they would follow in their respective disciplines. In addition to the above said objectives, the design was made in such a way so that, the students' horizons could be enriched. They would get the broader view of the academic world they are involved. Higher education being the tertiary level of education; many objectives defined by UGC are needed to be met by the students.

As the very important aspect of the program, head of the institute, Principal Dr. R. S. More motivated the students in the sessions attributed to him. He, in his address to the students took a review of the secondary and higher secondary level of education. He pointed out that, the purpose of higher education is to explore all the possibilities of acquiring knowledge that would cross the border of mere information. Dr. Shreya Patil, IQAC Coordinator, cleared to the students, the path decided by NAAC while exploring their studies. He set the objectives of the NAAC and the role of IQAC before the students and appealed them to actively participate in all the programs the institute would design with respect to the quality pursuit. All other resource persons of the program informed the students about the various opportunities opened by the institute through which they can develop their personalities.
